Richard Attisha, Barbara Norell and John Sullivan recently attended TAGLaw's 32nd international conference in Edinburgh, Scotland. The conference, which took place on May 4-6, 2015, provided TAGLaw® members with the opportunity to strengthen the relationships they create within the alliance of more than 150 law firms from around the world. Also in attendance at the conference were members of TAGLaw's affiliate alliances, TIAG® (The International Accounting Group) and TAG-SP™. All three alliances are collectively known as the TAG Alliances™.

In addition to various networking opportunities and group breakout sessions, TAGLaw members attended a variety of informative and educational sessions aimed at firm and practice development. Sessions and speakers at this conference include:

- “The Future of Europe” – Rt Hon Lord Norman Lamont, Former Chancellor of the UK Exchequer;
- “The Modern Partner: Not Like it Said in the Brochure” – Mark Brandon, Motive Legal Consulting;
- “The Road Ahead: Anticipated Changes in the Energy Industry” – Moderator: Andrew Reid, Douglas-Westwood;
- “Pricing in Professional Service Firms: An Essential Skill” – Richard Burcher, Validatum;
- “Cross-border Dispute Resolution” – John Delaney; Delaney Partners (The Bahamas – TAGLaw); and
- Various “Specialty Group” breakout sessions.

“The international conferences provide excellent business development opportunities for attendees”, stated Richard Attisha. “The many networking sessions allow members to promote the strengths of their firm as well as their own personal brand. The Edinburgh conference has been no exception. Through discussions at the conference, our firm has been introduced by foreign members to two new clients with significant business in our jurisdiction.”
